Liquor and War

The following, appearing as an editorial in the London Times, is surely significant: "The trail of the German troops is marked, as innumerable witnesses testify, by myriads of empty bottles. Their once proud soldiery is now typified by the colonel found in a stupor amid his unconscious men beside a cask in an Epiney cellar. We may contrast with this picture the spectacle presented by the Allies—Russia absolutely prohibiting the sale of vodka and beer throughout her immense dominions, France forbidding the sale of absinthe, the British soldier marching through the best vineyards in existence and temperately drinking, as many letters tell us, his cup of tea. The great victory over drunkenness in Russia has received far too little attention in this country. Since China proscribed opium the world has seen nothing like it. We have been well reminded that in sternly prohibiting the sale of spirituous liquor Russia has already vanquished a greater foe than the Germans. It is fully realized yet for the Allies, and for the first time in history, this is not for its own purposes, a 'total' war? We hope that the indiscreet people who insist on 'treating' our soldiers and sailors on their return from the front will realize it very quickly. The fight against drink, which the Allies alike against internationalism symbolize the other victory which must eventually be theirs. Troops who march obeying the czar's ukase against drink, who carry their knapsacks Lord Kitchener's admonition to adjure wine, already have an immense moral advantage over armies whose officers set their men the example of looting every cellar they find. In the vicious excesses of the German forces we see a hint of their coming overthrow."

Of course our readers know that since the publication of this editorial it has been announced in Petrograd that the prohibition of the sale of vodka is to be continued indefinitely even after the end of the war. This order is based principally on the tremendously improved condition of the country since the Emperor issued the edict prohibiting traffic in this liquor. The Russian authorities are so impressed with this startling regeneration of the peasantry that they believe it is likely to have an important effect on the social and economic conditions of all Russia.—The Christian Guardian.

What Causes Trouble

Summing up the main causes of business trouble among western merchants the catalog naturally arranges itself as follows:

- (1) Poor credits, involving actual loss, entailing capital from having resources tied up and consequent failure to take discounts and thus save money.
- (2) Lack of business aggressiveness. This applies particularly to the country merchant. He needs to go after business as his city rival does. He neglects his window, forgets his advertising and generally fails to pay strict attention to business.
- (3) Eliminating those two general causes of failure is to be capital, strange to say, however, genius in mercantile business seldom lacks capital and never overreaches. We know a silent Greek who has been in one little shack of a business over a year and just recently he purchased a shop house. He needed it badly but without temptation until he felt on solid ground. He confessed that next day he contemplated enlarging his premises. It is truly marvellous what a good man with proper ballast can do on small capital.—The Commercial Review.

Will Tax Wild Land

One of the most important measures placed upon the statute books of the province is that enacted at the last session of the Alberta Legislature when a tax was placed upon wild land held for speculative purpose. The immediate result will be the increase to provincial revenue of probably $400,000 which will more than meet the loss of revenue from various sources due to the war and the collapse of speculative enterprise which is estimated at about $400,000. The contingent result will be to discourage the holding of wild land for speculative purposes and encourage cultivation and stock raising.

Actual farmers residing on the land are exempt up to 640 acres by virtue of the fact that they reside on the land. They are still further exempt on any additional acre so long as one quarter of the land was cultivated in the previous year. They are exempt also on all land fenced and used for pasturing stock to the number of at least one head of horses or cattle or three sheep to each ten acres, providing the stock are the property of the owner of the land. Recently this tax was used for the farmer or rancher, and the clauses relating to cultivation and stock raising exempt all owners, whether they live on the land or not.

With the enforcement of the wild land tax, those who hold land in a wild state, intent upon collecting from someone who would use it a certain penalty for his idleness, will be compelled to pay for the privilege of so doing. The practical effect will be to make the holding of farm land for speculative purposes less profitable, and will thereby lead to a more rapid settling of the country by making it easier for those who would use land to gain access thereto.

Harvest Festival Services

Harvest Festival services were held in the Church of St. John the Evangelist on Sunday morning and evening last. The church was suitably decorated for the occasion, Mesdames Harvey, Buckingham, Guy and others being responsible for the taste and appropriateness of these decorations. The services were directed by the rector, Rev. H. M. Henderson, were in keeping with the spirit of the festival. Similar services were held at Staley's week ago Sunday with special music by the choir of Emmanuel Mission.

Ran With the Plow

A very painful accident occurred to Mrs. Chas. Walters last week. She was on the sulky plow and the horse took fright and started to run. Mrs. Walters was thrown violently to the ground and painfully bruised besides sustaining the fracture of a rib. Dr. Tupper attended her and she has almost recovered from the effects of the injury. Mrs. Walters has been very unfortunate of late and her friends will be pleased to hear of her recovery.

Not Strangers Here

The Hallowell Concert Company will make their third visit to Claresholm on Saturday Oct. 31st, on their 12th annual tour. For three consecutive years Claresholm Lodge No. 17, Knights of Pythias, has brought this splendid musical organization to this town and has deserved the commendation of those who appreciate a clean wholesome entertainment. It is well to remember that this concert company can only be secured by a substantial guarantee and the appreciation of the people of Claresholm can be shown by patronizing this musical organization.

Patriotism Stirrs Large Audience to Patriotic Givng

Fund Reaches Almost $500 in One Night

Visiting M. P. Holds Brief for Our Soldiers

There can be no doubt that the Claresholm Patriotic & Relief Society has gotten off with a fine start and the success of the society is assured if the splendid attendance at the mass-meeting of Thursday is any criterion. The opera house was filled with an appreciative audience, the ladies being well represented. The Claresholm Band rendered several pleasing selections outside while the hall was filling and for a wonder the proceedings started more nearly on time than is usual in this town. Mayor Holmes was in the chair and with him on the platform was the speaker of the evening, W. A. Buchanan, M. P., Lethbridge and the President of the society, Dr. B. F. Steeves. The program opened with the singing of a special patriotic version of the National Anthem by the massed choirs. Miss Hazel Strang sang "Rule Britannia," and the French anthem was rendered by Mrs. Steeves and the combined choirs of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches.

W. A. Buchanan, in the course of his remarks, outlined the steps in the organization of the patriotic fund. The speaker said that Britain knew that war was to be narrowly averted if at all when the demands of Austria upon Serbia were made known. He spoke of the part which Britain played in the negotiations for peaceful settlement and with pride referred to the strenuous efforts of Sir Edward Grey toward this end. He stated that Russia, too, was prepared to go to almost any length short of national dishonor to preserve peace. But Germany was evidently determined to submit to nothing less but the arbitrament of the sword. There were unmistakable evidences that the Kaiser had been for years actively preparing for war and awaited only a plausible excuse and an opportune moment to "let loose the dogs of war."

He eloquently British for her adherence to principle and spoke of the strength and significance of "scrap of paper" to the nation which prided itself on the integrity of its pledged word. The impartial in the U. S. were endeavoring to retain such an upright neutrality that they were leaning toward Britain. The best minds in the country to the south of us realize the justice of Britain's position and sympathize with her in this struggle. There was also an understanding that should the allies lose and militarism triumph that the only other free nation on the earth would be brought under the iron heel next. Germany had not as ideal Europe-dominion but would dominate. The speaker outlined our obligations to the patriotic fund. The gallant soldiers who are fighting our battle had to make supreme sacrifices. We at home must be willing to make sacrifices. If we can not go to the front we must carry the home-burden which the soldiers have left to us while they carry ours at the bayonet's point. The Belgian soldiers and the Belgian people have set us a worthy example. Their country has been ravished with fire and sword, their nation has been the most destroyed, their homes are smoking ruins. Their wives and children have been brutally slain, their daughters ravished. Desolation reigns where once was smiling fields and the birds of prey are feasting on the bodies of the slain. We, by comfortable firesides, in the midst of flocks and herds unfrightened by the noise of carnage, surrounded by smiling fields, untrampled by marching legions, are having this peace preserved by the soldiers at the front. What are a few dollars to the maintenance of this peace and yet how much are these few dollars to the brave fellows at the front, how these few dollars when they are in the lonely hours when alone, wounded, on the battlefield, they think as their life-tide ebbs, our loved ones back home are being cared for by those for whom we are dying. The obligation rests heavily upon us. Shall we be mean enough to meet it?

Principal Stephen, of the Claresholm School of Agriculture, outlined the proposed division of the funds secured by the Claresholm Patriotic & Relief Society. It had been decided to devote 60 per cent to the Canadian Patriotic Fund, 25 per cent to the Belgian Relief Fund and the balance for local relief.

The program which followed was a splendid one though hastily prepared. One of the outstanding features was the singing of "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" by little Dorothy Godley which brought down the house. Then followed a piano solo by Miss Mabel Anderson, a cornet solo by W. R. Shanker, a song by Willard Hagg, a solo by A. Cornthwaite, a duet by the Misses Julia and Mabel Soby, a song by Gerald McLean and the concluding number, "O Canada," sung by the combined choirs.

A subscription list was passed around and the pledges and cash totalled about $450. There were some of the prominent citizens of the town who were not present and it is expected that when these have announced their subscriptions and others who were there have increased their donations, the fund will be considerably over $500. It is not the intention of the committee of the society to rest on its laurels but through the winter there will doubtless be many attempts made by concerts and other social entertainments to swell the fund. It is the opinion of many who are in a position to form a judgment that the demands on this fund will continue for many months and in consequence the maintenance of this fund will not be a temporary matter but will call for repeated sacrifices on the part of the Canadian people. It is also expected that there will be a general effort on the part of the country communities to add to this fund which is not a local one but which should appeal to the entire constituency. The society affords a channel by which every school district and farming community in the electoral district may have their contributions forwarded to the headquarters of the Canadian Patriotic Fund. The Claresholm electoral district this day expects every man to do his duty.

Ayrshires Butter Producers

Among the Ayrshire cows that qualified in the test for the official record of performance during July and August was Burnside Elfrida II 27183, an Ayrshire cow at the Claresholm Demonstration Farm, produced 10,850 lbs. of milk which contained 428 lbs. of butter fat, or 3.92 per cent. This cow stood well in the tests in the nursing class being third in quantity of milk produced among 6 cows which qualified and also in the per cent of butter fat. There are several of the Ayrshire herd at the farm that will be eligible for the test soon. These official tests are proving what a valuable butter producer the Ayrshire cow is. There is profit in dairying when Ayrshires are kept.

Rangers May Get Chance

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—In regard to complaints received, more particularly from Western Canada, that certain districts have been asked to contribute such only a few members of the second Canadian contingent, half of which go forward in December, it is pointed out in the militia department that the call sent out applies to the infantry force. When Lord Kitchener has inspected the Canadian force now at Salisbury Plain, and is heard from, it is likely that there will be demand for several cavalry or mounted infantry regiments. They will practically all be recruited in Western Canada, so that at least two or three additional western regiments are almost certain to get an early opportunity to go to the front.

Swell the Patriotic Fund

The Advertiser is in hearty sympathy with the aim and objects of the Patriotic Fund. With the purpose of assisting in the increasing of this fund, The Advertiser will give 50 cents out of each $1.50 paid for a year's subscription to The Advertiser. Those who are in arrears should pay up promptly and thus help out the Fund to the extent of 33 1/3 per cent of the amount so paid. The Advertiser is making some sacrifice as $1.50 does not pay the actual cost of producing the paper but all are ready and willing for such a sacrifice. Aid the Fund by promptly meeting the publisher's half in this matter. This offer will hold good for the month of November. We have nearly 1,000 names on our list. See what this will mean to the Fund, if all were to pay arrears or renew for one year.

A Hold-Up Foiled Escapes

On the way to the dance at Leo School's last Friday night, a young man and his two lady companions met with a touch of adventure that was at once exciting and unpleasant. The night was pitch dark and the rig with its occupants was almost opposite the Five-Mile school on the Star Line. The horse stopped suddenly and the driver getting out, went to investigate the cause of stoppage. A scream from the ladies in the rig recalled him, and coming back he faintly discerned a form cowering toward him. A well-placed kick to the pit of the stomach laid out the man before he had time to place the watch, which he had taken from the belt of one of the ladies, in his pocket. The gallant escort recovered the watch and fearing that the ladies would faint, or have an attack of hysteria, he drove on to the dance, leaving the hold-up men unconscious on the ground and without having identified the man in any way. The story of the lady is that her coat was jerked open and a hand passed along her belt until the watch was discovered. The two ladies screamed in chorus and the brave defender returned to knock out their assailant and recover the watch. It seems a pity that the miscreant should not have been unmasked and given over to proper punishment. Now comes a somewhat amusing side of the matter. An ex-cleuth was returning about from the dance with the intention of seeing if by any chance the hold-up might not have recovered and escaped. A rig passed, to the occupants of which he bade a polite good-night. The reply came in the form of a slash from the buggy-whip across the face. The excitement caused by the story of the adventure of the earlier evening had made the girl wary and the blow was her answer to the supposed "good-night." Apologies have been made and everything forgiven. But if any of the party could lay their hands on the original cause of all the excitement, he would not be recognizable when the castigation would be over.

Watched the Premier

On Thursday last week, Premier A. L. Sifton was honored by the presentation to him by the Liberal members of the provincial legislature, of a magnificent striking watch, 14k, with attachment whereby it can be caused to strike the half-hours and the quarter-hours. The gift carried with it an address which expressed the confidence in their chief of the members of the liberal party in the house.

To Institute Tau Cross

Word has been received from Walter V. Saunders, of Medicine Hat, that he will be able to visit Claresholm on the evening of Tuesday, November 10th, for the purpose of duly instituting the newly organized Tau Cross Chapter, Royal Arch Masons. Mr. Sanders is the district representative of District 17A, G. R. U. He will visit High River on the day preceding.

They Can Come Again

Richards' and Pringle's Minstrels have been here and are gone but they left a pleasant taste in the mouth for they outdid themselves to please the large audience which greeted them last Friday night at the Claresholm Opera House. The show was unusually clean for a minstrel show. The talent of the individuals making up this entertaining company was cleverly brought out in the program chosen and their antics made the laugh come and their singing of the old plantation melodies brought the tears and everyone was satisfied. Had the stage not been too small for the elaborate setting which they carry, it would have been a more suitable background for this excellent company.

The music presented by the artists of the Hallowell Concert Company, is high-class and yet not above the comprehension of the untrained ear. Everyone will be charmed with the solo harp in Varadero's hands, with the offerings of the 'cello soloist, C. G. Myers, with M. S. Van der Meer and his violin, with Mr. Shelley and his trombone and the other stars of this fine musical company.

Barry Gages, Carmanagay, was a Claresholm visitor yesterday.

Let Town and Country Join

In many parts of the province the country has been interested in the Patriotic Fund to such an extent that the constituency is united in the raising of the fund and each community or school district has assumed its duty to make the fund one worthy of the electoral district. In the organization of the Claresholm Patriotic & Relief Society, this was the attitude and on the committee several of the country communities are represented. It is not too late to make this representation wider in scope so as to take in the whole constituency. A splendid idea is being worked out in other parts of the province to this end. A concert party makes visits to many of the schoolhouses and gives an entertainment and incidentally organizes that community for further work for the Fund. It gives a start and secures some uniformity in the organization and connects the particular community with the central organization and hence with the Central Committee at Ottawa. This paper has been desirous of seeing the whole electoral division of Claresholm unitedly working to create and keep in operation an organization which will do something worthy of the constituency.

Pray for Army and Navy

By special request of the bishop of the diocese, Sunday next, Nov. 1st, will be observed in Stavelly Church as a Day of Intercession with Almighty God on behalf of His Majesty's naval and military forces, now engaged in this dreadful war. There will be a Celebration of the Holy Communion at 3 p.m., with an appropriate address together with special hymns and prayers. A special appeal is made to all church people to attend this service.

Something New In Store

If you are looking for real fun on Halloween, and harmless fun at that, a chance is afforded in the Shadow School and Dance at the Clear Lake School on Friday evening, October 30th, 1914. The roads are sure to be good. Who ever saw them anyway else on All Halloween. The provision being made by the Clear Lake people with a view to collect the payment on the school organ, promises a splendid and unique evening's enjoyment. There is no admission but take a few dollars in the pocket to be prepared for an appeal to your kinder sense. Remember it's on Halloween/Friday, Oct. 30.

To Sweep the Seas

London, Oct. 24.—The British admiralty has issued a statement saying that the necessity to use its warships for convoy duty having passed, British cruisers, aided by like vessels of the Australian, Japanese, French and Russian navies, will now search the seas in an endeavour to run down the eight or nine German cruisers, including the Emden and the Karlsruhe, which have been playing havoc with the shipping of the allied countries.

War to Blame

The Cranbrook Prospector has ceased publication, and has for a time amalgamated its interests with that of the Cranbrook Herald. The Prospector has been published since 1895, and owing to business depression occasioned by the war, has been obliged to suspend.

In response to an appeal through the Lutheran College at Camrose for help for the Southern Alberta farmers whose crops were a failure this season, a carload of vegetables, mostly potatoes, was collected and shipped to Medicine Hat last week.

603 prisoners of war are being held in Canada. Of these over 400 are Austrians as many of the German recruits were called home before the war was formally declared.

Germany's Place in the Sun

In the months that are to come during which the war will certainly continue, the battle line may waver backward and forward and there may be times when the legions of the kaiser will have temporarily the better of it; but the final outcome because inevitable when the German plan to strike the quick and fatal blow at the French army and to capture Paris failed. "The Day," for which the Germans prayed, must dawn for them upon a morning of sorrows, and the kaiser's place in the sun will quite probably be St. Helena.

The Germans autocracy is beaten. With this outcome inevitable, the question which will present itself to the minds of the civilized world is what arrangements can ultimately be made to provide against a repetition of such a crime as a world's war.

One or two things seem reasonable certain. First of all, Europe will be relieved for all times of kaiserism. This age will not permit such nations as Germany and Austria to lapse back into the place where a militarist cult can control the affairs of millions of people and where it is within the power of single hands to pull the wires that may precipitate war. That the German people themselves have long since been prepared for this is manifest from the returns of recent elections in Germany; in fact, it is within the realm of possibility that not the least of the considerations which led the kaiser into war was the impending peaceful revolution which would have taken out of his hands the autocratic control of German affairs. In this outcome, the German people stand to gain profit by defeat.

One other thing which seems probable to eventuate is the contribution of Europe according to nationalities and races. Europe's geography at the present time is a most unnatural geography; Poland divided among three countries; Alsace and Lorraine in a Teutonic confederation; Trieste in Austria; Galicia, in the Slav, under Austrian control; the Magyars of Hungary dominated by the Teutons of Vienna; Turkey holding hundreds of thousands of Christians under a Moslem administration; Serbia denied an outlet on the sea; Russia, with the greatest wheat-growing region in the world, denied an open port on the Atlantic, the Mediterranean or the Indian ocean. All these things are "triumphs" of diplomacy; each one constitutes an unnatural arrangement containing all the elements of incitement to war, and all together cry out for the abolition of the thing which militarist governments and jealous despots designate as diplomacy, but which is really pestiferous devilry.

These things the termination of peace may straighten out. But there is another consideration which triumphant allies in the hour of their triumph are quite likely to overlook. It is the fact that the world cannot afford to stultify the genius of the German people.

Germany has sixty-seven million people. One million habes abroad within her borders every year. Her total area is 209,000 square miles, just about 45,000 square miles less than the province of Alberta. In this crowded area her people have shown a wonderful genius. They have contributed to the world in the past 40 years some of the most conspicuous achievements of progress. They need room to expand. They sought it through militarism—the obsession of a crazed autocrat—and have failed.

But what they have failed to get through war, the democratic spirit of the world should see that they get through peace.

No better safety valve could be applied to an one which permits the German genius room to expand. To refuse this invites another explosion.

Hired Newspapers.

A Custom in London in the Days When

Prices Were High.
A London newspaper, the "Daily News," has inserted an interesting document which goes back to the days of dear newspapers, when the papers were taken around to houses and hired for so many hours at so much an hour. Turned away, it says, in the letters of an old guidebook to the Crystal Palace, dated 1854, has been found a little printed leaflet, issued from Vetterlin's library and newspaper office, 20 St. George's place, Hyde Park Corner, making the following announcement:—"Can be had from the office by 8 o'clock in the morning, to keep at 10 cents per copy, or less to read for three hours at 20 cents or two hours for 18 cents per week. It can also be supplied at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the reduced price of 6 cents per copy or posted into the country at 85 per quarter, payable in advance."

In those days the "Daily News" had been started only eight years under the original editorship of Charles Dickens and was still published at 10 cents a copy. Its editor at the time was William Weir, and Harriet Martineau, perhaps the first woman in England to undertake regular journalistic work, was one of the writers of its leading articles.

The system of hiring did not disappear quickly. Certainly down to the year 1880 there were many households in which the Times was still left on the table, and it would be difficult to say which the system finally died out—Christian Science Monitor.

A Draw.

"I found 50 cents this morning," cried Jimmie.
"Found a whole half dollar?" cried his mother. "How fine! What did you do with it?"
"Pete Jones was along, so I gave him half."
"Dear, generous boy! Did you do that of your own accord?"
"Yesum—well, we decided that would be right."
"Jimmie! He didn't whip you and make you give up half?"
"No, mamma. If he'd licked me he'd had it all. The scrap was a draw."

Cleaning Fluid.

An excellent household cleaning fluid of great general utility for many emergencies is made by dissolving four ounces of white castile soap in a quart of boiling rainwater. When cool add two ounces each of alcohol, ether and glycerine, four ounces of ammonia, and finally one gallon of rainwater and then bottle. This will remove grease spots from clothing and spots from table covers, carpets and rugs.

Despotic.

"No, I am not going to marry him."
"Why not?"
"I cannot trust him. He is too despotical."
"Why, how's that?"
"He pretends to like my poodle," Houston Post.

Force of Habit.

"I have to be ready on time. My habit won't wait a minute for me."
"He won't?"
"No. You see, in his youth he was an elevator boy." Detroit Free Press.

Chums.

Messenger—"Who's the swell guy ya was talkin' to, Jimmie? Newbery?"
Aw, him an' me's friends together for years. He's the editor o' one o' my papers—Life.

Ambiguous.

He—"They asked me to try their reception, but it wasn't because we like me. It was only because I can sing like a duck. I'm sure you're mistaken."—Gleaner.

LEGALIZED NICKNAMES.

They Appeared in Official Records in Colonial Times.

Nicknames are not likely to go out of fashion so long as human nature remains what it is. Schoolboys will nickname each other, colleagues will nickname their professors, and soldiers will speak of their commanders as "Flea Bitten Bill," "Fighting Joe," or "Fat not." In these days, however, it is not customary to spread such titles upon official records, as was formerly the habit, according to the archives of several of our states.

In the Dutch records in 1614 we have John Pieterse, alias Friend John. In the Newtown purchase from the Indians, dated in 1656, one of the boundaries is "by a Dutchman's land called Hens the Boers," and in the Swedish patent, dated Oct. 12, 1667, one of the boundaries is "John the Swede's meadow." In 1685, in the Kings county records, a man is named living at Governor's as "Duke the Fisherman."

The common couplet of New York in 1801 ordered fish to be brought into the dock "over against the city hall or the house that Long Mary formerly lived in," and in the same year an order was passed "that Topknot Betty and her children be provided for as subjects of charity."

The explanation of this custom in many cases was that the person in question either had no family names or had forgotten them, so that the use of their generally accepted nicknames seemed a necessity. So numerous were the Smiths living upon Long Island that it was thought necessary to distinguish the various original families by some peculiar name. Hence the Black Smiths, the Blue Smiths, the Bull Smiths and the Wild Smiths—Harris's Weekly.

CANVASSER WANTED

A good, live hustler can make good money with a splendid proposition as a subscription collector. Do not apply unless you mean business. Apply by mail to "Box A," The Claresholm Advertiser, Claresholm, Alta. 23-25.

Found a Watch

Found, on October 27th, a watch with fob attached. Owner may have same by proving property and paying for this adv. Apply at the Advertiser office, Claresholm, Alta.

STRAYED YEARLINGS

Strayed from Vanhorn's Livery Barn, 1 red yearling heifer and 1 yearling bull. Suitable reward for recovery. Apply to D. H. Ramage, Central Meat Market, Claresholm, Alta. 29-31.

TAKE NOTICE

No person is allowed to sell water in competition with the town water department, nor is any person allowed to provide water from his tap to others not granted water service by the department. As the two practices are against the regulations under which water services are granted, persons disregarding the same will be charged the additional rate which should be paid by the persons whom they may be supplying contrary to these regulations of the water department. A rigid enforcement of this notice will be made on and after November 1st, 1914.

NOTICE TO WATER AND LIGHT USERS

As October 31st closes the fiscal year, it is absolutely necessary that all water and light accounts be settled prior to that date. The town officials have a sufficient number of problems to solve without attempting to carry arrears in these accounts. This is a serious insistence that settlement be made of all accounts before the end of this month.

By Order of the Town Council.

THE MAN BEHIND

A Banking Institution gets strength as much from the men who direct its affairs as from the actual capital invested.

Money deposited in the Bank of Hamilton is guarded by men well known for business integrity, and men who value security more than high profits. To this policy is due a surplus which is one quarter larger than its Capital—the result of over 40 years conservative management.
